SCHEDULE PASSED

ALBERTA CONSTITUENCIES STAND

Opposition Took a Tumble when Severely Handled by the Senior Conservative Organ of Canada.

Ottawa, June 26.—The leading editorial in today's issue of the Montreal Gazette, stating the Conservatives for their obstruction of public business, had a most salutary effect on the opposition today, when the Alberta Bill was taken up. The opposition assumed a business air and proceeded to discuss the questions intelligently, with the result that the schedule of the Alberta Bill were all put through before the House rose. This practically leaves only the educational clause to be adopted. There is the land clause, and the Capital clause which will be disposed of tomorrow and likely the educational clause will be put through on Wednesday. Mr. Fitzpatrick dropped from the order paper two bills relating to the Government of the Territories outside of the new provinces. This was done because it had been decided to bring the other territories except Keewatin under the direct control of the Governor-General in Council, instead of under provincial governors. Mr. Fitzpatrick announced that the Dominion would appeal to the privy council against the decision of the justice in the alien labor case.

ROSCIAN COMIC OPERA CO

This evening the Roscian Comic Opera Co. will open a five nights' engagement in the Thistle rink. The Free Press has this to say of the opening of the company there. The first gun in the Roscian Comic Opera company's engagement was fired last night when Claude Amesen, Carolyn Lum, Frank Walters, Hazel Davenport, Hilliard Campbell, Alice Waerde Pool and a host of pretty girls frolicked into the auditorium in John Philip Sousa's famous opera, El Capitan. They were greeted by an audience of over 2,000 people and settled down to what promises to prove a pleasant and profitable engagement. El Capitan itself is all that a comic opera is supposed to be and a great deal more. It stands at the head of its class, undeniably bright, musically witty and smart in dialogue. Claude Amesen plays the title role and plays it well. The part is unique in construction, and Amesen's conception of it is clever. There was always a laugh when he was on the stage and he was on the stage most of the time. Some of his antics were sidesplitting and kept the house in roars of merriment. Miss Carolyn Lum developed a voice of exceptional sweetness and cultivation and Miss Hazel Davenport as the Princess Margherita made one of the pronounced hits of the performance. Miss Alice Pool looked winsome and pretty. Mr. Frank Walters has lost none of his remarkable tones and as Count Hernando Verrado his work showed the artist. Mr. Hilliard Campbell's opportunity came only in the last act and the little singing he had to do will make any audience wish to hear him in more pretentious roles. The chorus is a strong feature. The women were all pretty and were handsomely costumed. The whole performance was smooth and breezy and the management ran congratulatory themselves on making a popular hit.

PIANO RECITAL

Following is the program of the piano recital in the Methodist church on Friday evening.
Chopin—(a) Nocturne, Op. 15, No. 2. (b) Ballade in G Minor.

Walsman—Minuet in A.

NEARING THE END

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE ALL IN

Defence in King Murder Case will not Call Witnesses—This Morning's Session

In Supreme court yesterday afternoon Jean Marie Moostoo, son of Alexandre Moostoo, was called. He had seen one evening last fall the prisoner with four pack horses pass his home near Lesser Slave Lake, going towards the settlement. He had afterwards visited the place where the prisoner had camped and picked up in the ashes a button, which crumbled in his fingers. He also saw in the ashes of the fire place the ash of some paper or cloth which had been burned. He was also at the slough when the articles contained in the old shoe were found.

Joseph Kwanis (The little old man) was called. He is a fisherman. Had met prisoner on the road near the now famous camp fire the same evening that he had been seen by the previous witness. Had visited the camp fire. The heap of ashes showed the remains of a very large fire. Had seen tracks leading from the fire into the nearby slough and out again at a different point. The previous night while lying in his teepee on the shore of the lake he had heard the report of a gun in the direction of the place where the prisoner and Hayward are claimed to have camped. In answer to Mr. Biggar witness said his teepee was not more than a half-mile from the camp. There was a thin layer of snow on the ground.

The trial continued this morning with the calling of Chief Moostoo as first witness. His evidence brought out nothing new. He related the story of finding the bones and giving them to Sgt. Anderson. In cross examination it was shown that there was some discrepancy between his evidence at the last trial and the present one, but it was in minor details of exactly when and how the different pieces of bone were found. In reply to questions as to where and how the Indians bury their dead, he said they were buried over half a mile from the bridge and on the opposite side of Sucker creek from the camp fire. He said they buried them as the white people do, some four feet in the ground.

Sophia Cardinal, wife of Casimir Cardinal, and sister of Chief Moostoo, was then called. She is a new witness and gave important testimony. She related how two men, identifying King as one, camped near her house. The missing man she identified from the photograph of Hayward. The latter, she said, came to her house on horseback; she was making a pair of moccasins, and by signs he expressed a desire to buy them. So the following morning about sun rise she went over to the camp fire to give them to him. She found a long fire blazing brightly, the logs piled some two and a half feet high and the blaze being as high as a man's head. She identified the prisoner as the man who was standing back of the fire. As she came up he took up a two-faced axe and began cutting small sticks and throwing them on the fire. She came near, looking for the "missing man" and distinctly saw flesh burning in the fire. She knew it was flesh because she had roasted deer in a camp fire. King then came toward her and motioned her to leave and, being unable to find Hayward, who ordered the moccasins, and not being able to converse with King, she left and went home. She said the morning was fine, but it had been raining and rained in the afternoon. Nothing was brought out in cross examination as she kept to her story as first told.

This concluded the evidence for the prosecution. The defence this afternoon announced that they would not call any witnesses. The last Crown witness was recalled for cross-examination. The addresses of the counsel and His Lordship's charge will probably be delivered this afternoon.

PARLIAMENT

(Hansard, Monday, June 19th)

HALF-BREED SCRIP.
 Hon. Frank Oliver, (Minister of the Interior). The honorable member (Mr. Foster) has been hatching for quite a while and I think we will admit he has succeeded in bringing forth a very wobbly chicken. His complaint that all the papers are not before the House is a sample of the fairness with which he has approached this subject. He has asked for an immense number of papers. The department has been at work ever since he asked supplying him with these papers. When completed they came down in instalments as fast as we could get them and I submit it is absolutely unfair on his part to stand up and make the distinct complaint that the papers have not been brought down simply because we have been unable to bring them all down before this.

UNREASONABLE CRITICISM

The honorable gentleman complains that certain papers which are allowed to be in these papers which are brought down have not been brought down. I do not know how far that theory is to be carried, because on that theory, we might be required to bring down at once the whole correspondence in regard to any simple question that might be asked. There are limitations, I presume, to the possibilities of giving information. Certainly, I am speaking for myself as the minister when I say that I honestly tried to give the honorable member the information he asked for. If he calls attention to some papers which he thinks should have been there and which are not there I am prepared to bring them down if they are in the department, but I submit it is absolutely unfair and it is of a piece with his whole argument to insinuate that these papers have not been brought down because of any fear on our part of a proper presentation of the case before the House. He said there was nothing to conceal. There is nothing to conceal. In the beginning of his remarks he assumed that there had been a departure from the policy of the Government in regard to the scrip covered by the Order in Council of 13th August, and he also said there had been a departure in regard to the matter of the assignment of the scrip.

NO ASSIGNMENTS

The policy of the Government in regard to half-breeds is that the half-breed who is entitled to the scrip shall get his scrip. That is the policy of the department and because that policy had not been carried out in the scrip issued of 1891 and 1892 it was subsequently decided that it should be carried out. There was no change of policy; there was a fulfilment of policy in regard to these matters. In regard to assignment he has himself presented to the House ample evidence to show that it has not been the policy of the department to grant assignment since 1901 and that no such assignments have been granted; yet, although he quibbles on the word "assignment," twists and turns it around he puts in absolute evidence of the plain fact that there was no change of policy in regard to assignments and that there have been no assignments since 1901. Up to that time there was a policy of assignment and I believe it was in response to the criticism of this very honorable gentleman himself along with other things that that policy of assignments was abandoned so that the scrip should be absolutely located by the half-breeds, or in the name of the half-breed, and that there should be no assignment of land scrip. Now there is no assignment of land scrip; there has been no assignment of land scrip. The complaint of the honorable gentleman's friend Mr. Chaffey is because Mr. Chaffey was not allowed to have his assignment dealt with; he was dealt with just as everybody else is. Mr. Foster. I would like to keep my honorable friend's right as far as I can. I never met Mr. Chaffey. I do not know him. I never wrote to him. I never received a letter from him. The minister may call him his friend if he likes, but he has no right to call him mine.

Mr. Oliver. I beg the honorable gentleman's pardon. I must confess that I was misled, for whereas in his former speech he took up the time of the House and the country in the pre-empting the granting of the scrip to the half-breeds as an injustice to the public, on this occasion the greater part of his speech has been occupied with a discussion of the woes of Mr. Chaffey.

NO CHANGE OF POLICY

I say in the first instance there has been no change in policy on the part of the department in regard to the issuing of scrip. The policy is to give the half-breed everything that is coming to him and there has been no change in the matter of assignment of scrip, so that practically all the trouble that is in the mind of my honorable friend in that regard does not exist. The right of these half-breeds to scrip was dealt with in the previous discussion. I think it is admitted that the half-breeds have a right to scrip and the demand has been made that the Government should see that they get their right; the complaint that my honorable friend has made here that the Government while making a pretense of giving them their rights is not going on and further protecting them and insuring that they shall get the full value of the scrip as issued is I think a complaint that comes with every all grace from my honorable friend or his friends on that side of the House especially in view of the arguments advanced by him during the first discussion that the half-breeds should not get the scrip at all, that it was gross injustice to the public at large and practically a robbery of the rights of the public that the rights of the half-breed should be recognized.

I would ask the honorable gentleman and the House what we are doing in this case unless it is giving the land to the half-breed. Every acre of land which my honorable friend has spoken of as belonging to Mr. Macdonald, 25,000 acres of land as he says, is located in the name of the half-breed.

The honorable gentleman thinks the half-breed is being defrauded by our insisting that the land shall be located as it has been in the name of the half-breed and that Mr. Macdonald or whoever he may be must get his transfer from the half-breed as the owner of the land and not from him as the owner of the scrip. I would like to know by what piece of legislation my honorable friend would provide that the half-breeds should never have the right to sell the land once he had located it. I am sure my honorable friend (Mr. Foster) understands the matter as I have stated it to the House, but I think the House at large did not gather that fact from the tenor of his remarks.

This department and this Government have no interest but to see that the half-breeds get what is coming to them—that they get their blood right. Although it may cost some part of the public domain to give them their rights, we stand prepared to justify ourselves before the country, even against the very clever and I think somewhat doubtful argument of my honorable friend, who would have us condemn in one part of the country for giving the land, and in another part of the country for not giving the half-breeds their rights. We stand prepared to give the half-breeds their rights, even at the expense of the public domain; and we do not stand to protect any man, be his name R. C. Macdonald or anything else, in any trespass upon those rights. The action taken, the papers before the House, and further papers which will be brought down if the honorable gentleman desires them, are evidence I think sufficient on that point.

BIRCH LAKE DISTRICT

Gilpin, June 16.—Our enterprising merchant, Mr. Gilpin, has just arrived with quite a large stock of goods from his wholesale dealers. His business has increased greatly owing to the large number of settlers who have come in.

Good prices are obtained here for all kinds of produce. Oats, being from 50c to 60c per bushel, butter 15c per lb. Eggs, the demand is greater than the supply, and they are not obtainable at any price except in small lots.

There have been quite a number of new houses built this spring and every one that can manage to get a suitable team is busy breaking up the prairie. There is likely to be a large acreage in crop in this district next year. Our blacksmith Mr. Geo. Dodge is kept busy keeping the plows and breakers in order.

The settlers who came from Oklahoma are talking of having a picnic at Birch Lake on July 4, by way of a re-union. There are quite a number of Oklahoma people in this district. We wish them a pleasant time. We have had about three days of rain since the ninth of this month. All crops are looking excellent and prospects could not be brighter for a bumper crop in the neighborhood at the present time. A number of our young men have left to work on the railroad. Rev. Mr. Bradley, has gone to labor at Lloydminster.

Over 100,000 of these machines have been sold in the U.S. within the last few years at the same price which is being charged for any other standard typewriter. This proves conclusively that the OLIVER is the very best machine made regardless of price.

As there is now in Montreal a factory devoted exclusively to the manufacture of this machine, it can be bought in Canada for the same price at which it is sold in the U.S. without adding from $25 to $30 to cover duty and charges, as do all the other standard writers.

This should be a very attractive proposition to any purchaser of writing machines.

Homesteading, Its Prose and Poetry

[Correspondence Toronto Globe]

To continue the Diary of a Tenderfoot. It was the merry month of May when I wrote last, now it's the good old summer time, with the sun tickling the leaves on the trees till they curl up in a spasm and stay curled up all along comes a petting rain and brings 'em to in a hurry. When summer comes here she comes a-bumming. The days are hotter than hot, the nights—but there aren't any worth speaking of. About 8 o'clock you notice a slight change of atmosphere, not a coolness, but the forerunner of one—like the look your best girl throws you before the "tiff" is really on. At ten the dark begins to slip in—not the honest, open dark of the east, but a light-footed, stealthy thing that hides behind bushes and hillocks and pounces on you unaware—but only begins. There is still light enough for you to look at photographs by—a favorite pastime of the young homesteader—the game of solitaire he swears off and goes back to many times and oft—and in the western sky some yellow clouds still drift like fluffy chickens which the hen has forgotten to cluck home.

The coolness is with you now, so are the mosquitoes, in fact, you get the notion that nature is backing up the latter and that the coolness is for the purpose of enabling them to buzz and bite furiously without getting overheated.

If you're a coward you fly to bed and blanket, but if you're game you stand to your guns. And, by and by, the hungry horde subsides, and the big, still night of the west is on you.

The Tepees show white, a line of ghosts going Indian file around the hill. The coyotes are tuning up in good style, the dogs are yelping occasionally, and a loon is calling to his mate, who doesn't answer—nobody can blame her for refusing to answer such a doubtful call—the world seems a big saucer filled with silence and the lid clapped on. Dark—you can feel and smell the dark; yet, would you believe it, over in the western sky one five yellow chick hangs out. An incubator chick is he, no careful hen ever had the rearing of him. You go to bed, get about a dozen winks of sleep, wake to hear preparations for breakfast going on, and, peeping through your window, which faces east, you find the yellow chick has crossed over during the night and is stretching its feathery legs to be in for the sunshine.

We stacked forty tons of hay, blue joint and red top. The blue joint is fine, the red top coarse, but both make excellent feed for stock. The wild pea vine is a thing which trips you up and makes you say things when out chopping or hunting of a winter's day, but in the summer you kind of humor it for its prettiness. Besides the cattle like it, and will forsake the grass to munch away at it. It grows six feet high in places.

It was my maiden effort in the hay-making line, and may be my arms didn't ache from forking up the stuff. Peter Luke put me through my feelings. He had the whin to blame me, and will never know how near he came to succeeding. I think I'd have given in the afternoon of the second day only for the smirk on the face of Peter Luke. I called to mind a story T. C. Q., the boss storyteller of Toronto, used to tell of a government official who went over the ground the Northwest missionaries had covered, and was so impressed by what he saw that he told his colleagues on his return, "It made a better man of me. I read my chapter and sing my little hymn every day and am not going to be outside in piety by any—heathen Indians," and pitched harder than ever. The ten stacks, neatly thatched, make a picture—to the boy that owns them. He feels his importance every time he looks at them, which is often.

Am building a house. The thermometer goes down to thirty below zero in the winter and life in a tent would be uncomfortable. Getting out the logs for it was no joke. Down timber piled thickly, tangled grass and pearlines heading one off at all points. The woods are thick and run in belts. We have poplar, spruce, pine and tamarack, any amount of them. Am building the house of spruce logs, two feet wide and nicely planed. For the stable we use the saddle-notch, but for the house a bevel dove-tail. It being the popular mode among homesteaders, I'll go into detail a little. It is twenty-four by twenty-four, nine logs high. There is an upstairs that would be bigger if the roof didn't crowd it out of all its corners, the partitions are of pine, and the whole interior is lathed and plastered. The logs outside are covered first with building paper, a capital windbreak, then shingled just as the roof is shingled. The portable sawmills will soon be all along this belt, and we'll have building made easy. At present we pay as follows for our material: British Columbia shingles, $3 a thousand, flooring $28, siding $22, and sheeting, $10.

Getting your stuff on the ground is no end of a job, and as for skilled workmanship, it's out of the question. Continued on page seven

THE NEWS OF THE DAY

IN CONDENSED DESPATCHES

Brief Items from many sources tell the story of the day's events.

HARLEM SWEEP BY HURRICANE.

New York, June 27.—A storm of cyclonic proportions passed over Harlem yesterday and killed one man and fatally injured two. It was accompanied by a perfect deluge of rain. Many chimneys were thrown down, thousands of dollars worth of plate glass smashed, and the damage runs up to a tremendous amount.

GERMANY ANGRY WITH ENGLAND.

Berlin, June 27.—The German press is getting bitter and accusing England of trying to foment trouble between France and Germany, notwithstanding the fact that "William the Sudden" threw the fat in the fire. It is very evident that Germany is nightly afraid of the British navy and now tries to make it up with France for the purpose of making a common cause against England. In the meantime France refused to see it that way.

EMBALMING FLUID IN MILK.

Boston, June 27.—The board of health has decided to make an investigation into the discovery that milk dealers are using embalming fluid in milk for the purpose of keeping it sweet. A special meeting of the board will be held when every dealer will be subjected to a rigid examination. It has been discovered that formaldehyde or embalming fluid has been sold in large quantities and, on an official test, samples of it were found in milk. The effect is detrimental and a recent unaccountable sickness among children is said to be due to it.

SEIZURE OF CANADIAN SHIPS

The Government of Uruguay Seizes a Canadian Sealing Schooner and Sends Crew to Jail.

Ottawa, June 26.—L. H. Polton, K. C., of Yarmouth, N.S., is here on his way to Montevideo, where he is being sent by the Department of Justice to look into the seizure of the Agnes G. Donohue, a sealing schooner, and the sending of officers and crew to prison by the Uruguayan Governor. The Canadian Government has decided to get all the facts of the case. The information so far, while contradictory, shows that an extraordinarily severe sentence was passed upon the captain, officers and men.

EARN A Comfortable Living WITH A Chatham Incubator

Poultry raising with a Chatham Incubator is a very profitable and easily managed occupation. Unless you want to go into it extensively it need take but very little of your time. Government reports show that the demand for chickens in Canada is greatly in excess of the supply and Great Britain is always clamoring for more. That means a steady market and good prices for chickens. You cannot raise chickens successfully with a setting hen. She is wasting time setting when she should be laying. While she is hatching and brooding a few chickens she could be laying ten or six dozen eggs. The percentage of chickens she hatches is much less than that produced by the Chatham Incubator.

It will pay you to own a Chatham Incubator.

Chatham Incubators contain every improvement of importance in incubator construction that has been produced. They are made of thoroughly seasoned wood, with two walls, case within case. Between these walls mineral wool is packed forming the very best insulation. Each piece of the case is mortised and grooved and screwed, making the whole as solid as a rock. Chatham Incubators are equipped with scientifically perfect regulators which are an infallible means of regulating the temperature.

No cash to pay until October, 1905.

We will start you raising poultry for profit with a Chatham Incubator without one cent of money from you until next Fall. That means that you can take off seven or eight batches and make considerable money out of the incubator before the first payment becomes due.

We couldn't make this offer if we were not certain that if you accept it you will get complete satisfaction, if we were not positive that the Chatham Incubator will pay you a handsome yearly income.

This is a straightforward offer. We make it to show our supreme confidence in the Chatham Incubator. We want you to accept this offer as we are sure of the satisfaction our incubator will give. Every machine we have put out so far has made other sales in the same neighborhood.

Our offer is to send you a Chatham Incubator at once, freight prepaid by us without one cent of cash from you. You make your first payment in October, 1905. The balance to be paid in October, 1906, or if a Cash Buyer you get it cheaper. Could any offer be fairer or more generous?

SMITH VALLEY, ONT., November 22nd, 1904.
The Incubator and Brooder that I bought from you saved me time. I wish now to pay the balance of this bill. If you will give me a discount, I am very much pleased with both incubator and brooder. I would not be without them, because I cleared the market, more than the incubator and brooder cost me. Yours respectfully,

Write us to-day for full particulars of our offer and mention this paper. Don't put it aside for another time as this special proposition may be withdrawn at any time.

Dr. Torg Interviewed

It will be remembered that Dr. H. M. Torg, of McGill, visited Edmonton a few weeks ago. On his return to Montreal he was interviewed on the school question by the press and is reported as follows: "I cannot say that I found any dissatisfaction with the present system of schools. Whether such a system would be equally satisfactory as the population increases remains to be seen. There are an exceedingly small number of so-called separate schools in the West, and even in the districts where separate schools are to be found, excepting perhaps in French districts, Roman Catholic children go to Protestant children to the public schools. In Strathcona, for example, I was told that out of seventy Roman Catholic children of school age only twenty were to be found in the separate school, the remainder going to the public school."

—Calgary Alberta: Hon. F. W. G. Haultain will arrive in the city today or tomorrow, or some day early in the week, and after his visit the general public may know something more regarding his plans for the future. Mr. Haultain, it is expected, will consult the leading Conservatives of Calgary regarding the outlook in Alberta and regarding some other matters of a public or personal nature. It is expected that Mr. Haultain will decide upon Calgary. He gave a slight hint of it at the board of trade banquet a couple of weeks ago. There seems to be little doubt but that Mr. Haultain would prefer to continue public life in the western province. However, for commercial reasons, having a considerable business connection in Regina, where he maintains a law office, it may be that he will eventually decide upon the eastern province. The Conservatives of Calgary are very anxious that Mr. Haultain decide upon Alberta, as they will be pretty much leaderless without him.

HOT AIR FURNACES

If you have any idea of heating your house with hot air, it will pay you to look into the "PEASE."

This Furnace is considered one of the very best made, and when installed by a first class mechanic is sure to give satisfaction. Ross Bros are the sole agents for this district, and they employ none but the best workmen, as some of the following testimonials from some of our best known citizens should convince you. We have a large number of these testimonials, every one of which is from gentlemen who have used the PEASE FURNACE.

We put a large number in Edmonton during last year, and in every instance the purchasers were well pleased, and do not hesitate to speak in the highest terms of them.

Sole Agents for Edmonton ROSS, BROS. Limited.

Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

The hot air heating system that you installed in my house last summer, and which has been thoroughly tested during the past winter, has given me splendid satisfaction. All parts of my house, which are in an exposed position on the crest of the river bank, were comfortably heated at all times. The coal consumed during the winter was not large, and it burns the Edmonton coal perfectly. I am very well satisfied with the heating system, and the workmanship and the material used on the job is of the best, and would recommend your furnace to any one.

Yours truly,
MALCOLM GROOT.

Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

Replying to yours re the furnace I purchased from you and which your workmen put in my store (The Hudson Bay Store) I am well satisfied with it. The store is 35 x 40, with a 15 foot ceiling, plate glass front, and when the thermometer stood a 22 below zero the store was easily heated to 90 degrees. The workmanship is first class in every particular. The fuel consumed is small considering the results we get. There is no smoke or leakage of gas, and the furnace is very easily managed. I can heartily recommend your furnace to any intending purchaser, as I am sure there can be no fault found with them.

Yours truly,
JAMES H. WOOD.

Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

Regarding the warm air furnace which you installed in my house, I may say that I am perfectly satisfied with it. I had no difficulty whatever in heating the whole house in all kinds of weather. No heat is wasted in the cellar, and I had no trouble with the pipes not working in windy weather. I find it easy to manage, and economical on fuel, and were I to build again, I would have no other kind of furnace, and I would recommend it to any person wanting one.

Yours truly,
W. H. COOPER.

Ross Bros. Limited,
Gentlemen:—

The furnace you placed in my house last year has given us the very best of satisfaction, and every room in the house is evenly heated, and I find that it burns the Edmonton coal very economically, and is easy to manage and free from dust or gas. I would cheerfully recommend it to anyone.

Yours truly,
KING POWELL.

Ross Bros., Limited,
Gentlemen:—

The Furnace you placed in the house I live in (owned by J. N. Pomereau) has given us perfect satisfaction. In fact we can make it too warm to live in if we were to let the Furnace burn freely, and have never been troubled with either smoke, gas or dust. I find it very easy to manage, and I am certain we could not keep the house as comfortable with stoves on anything like the same amount of fuel, and would recommend it to any person wanting a good Furnace.

Yours truly,
J. B. MERCER.

Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

After using your Furnace all winter it gives me great pleasure to recommend it to any one. I used another make of Furnace for four years in the same house, previous to getting this furnace from you, and find your Furnace a great improvement over the old one. I find it free from dust, gas or smoke, and easy to manage, and that the grate burns the Edmonton coal perfectly. My house is more evenly heated with only a little over half the fuel, and I might say that the material and workmanship in connection with the installation of the Furnace is of the best.

Yours truly,
R. J. MANSON.

Messrs. Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

The Furnace you installed in my house last summer has given me perfect satisfaction in every respect, and free from gas or dust, and find that I get more heat from less fuel out of your Furnace than I could from the old Furnace you took out. Therefore would cheerfully recommend your Furnace to any person wanting one.

Yours truly,
C. W. CROSS.

Ross Bros.,
Gentlemen:—

The hot air heating system that you installed in my hotel, has proved to be all and more than you represented it to be, and would not change it for the old system if I had to pay double what it cost me, as I find your Furnace only uses about half the amount of coal that the old Furnace used. In fact one Furnace now heats the whole hotel, except in extreme cold weather, while it took both the old Furnaces going full blast all the time to heat the hotel other winters.

I find your furnace not only a fuel saver, but easy to manage, free from dust, smoke or gas, and would be pleased to recommend it to any person wanting one.

Yours truly,
J. J. MELLON, Strathcona.

Homesteading, Its Prose and Poetry.

Homesteaders are their own architects as well as builders. By doing the work yourself, you can build the house described for $300.

One man forgot to plough around his site, and the prairie fires swept down and licked up the material he had got together for building. He did not give up—you can't floor a grifty chap once he gets his constitution full of western ozone. This is no joke. The newness of things begets an optimism proof against everything but homesickness. The neighbors turned in and helped him, each one drawing a load of stuff. Then there was a "bee" raising the house. Perhaps the newness of things begets sympathy as well as optimism.

The crying need of the country is men who know how to work, like to work and are possessed of some means. It's absurd for people to come up here penniless. It costs to start a homestead, costs to run one, costs to live. The sun asked for an article, or a piece of work, knocks the beginner silly. For instance, I paid five dollars for the shoeing of a team but, as the blacksmith, a Brockville boy, by the way, reminded me, it may be a month before it uses his force again.

These Alberta homesteads are all right, though. At present the wheat looks fine. You begin to feel that the farmer's life is the life for you when you watch your grain growing and a-blowing in your own fields. Chief Alexander, perhaps the best farmer among the Indians, tells me that he sold his wheat last year for 87 cents per bushel—not a bad price, considering that it did not see a famine mill, but went straight to the market from the threshing machine.

Vegetables grow to a great size. The young Irishman from Cobarine had fifteen acres of potatoes. He calls it his "fernery," and is as proud as a peacock of it, and says, "No fanner prattles ever grew on the cold sod." He intends later on taking a boatload of produce up to Battleford and Lloydminster. Hope it's a paying venture. He is sweet on the schoolmarm out at ——— Lake, and there is so little romance going on in these wilds that one likes to see that little prosper. Not that the price of the potatoes would offset the romance itself, but it would hurry things on some. The schoolmarm is clear grit. Think of coming out here from the frills and fun of a girls' college! She has taught school-keo years, said at first she hated it, but she grew used to it, and now thoroughly enjoys it. It's just possible the good-looking Irishman helped her to change her sentiments.

The Indians get too much of her time. I found her sitting on the schoolhouse steps the other day wiping her eyes, and trying to make herself believe she was miserable. Here, she had come out to teach the children of the redmen to read and write, and, incidentally, to win their affection and confidence. Alas! her task was a failure—she herself was a failure! On Monday only nine of her scholars put in an appearance. Tuesday three of these failed her. Wednesday but four answered to the roll-call. Today she found an empty room, silence, and on her desk a sort of reparation offering consisting of two very dirty shells, some wilted wild flowers, and a long red string of over-ripe strawberries.

June means an end of lesson to the Indian of five and of fifty. The smell of wild berries ripening is in his nostrils, the sound of running stream and waterfall in his ears, and with his eyes shut he sees the camp-fire days in the heart of the wood. The instinct to get out of his log-built house and store clothes seizes him, on the moment, and he acts on it without regard for anybody's feelings but his own, not so different from his white brother after all.

A swan, we're told, sings only before it dies: an Indian takes but one bath a year, and this is just before his fitting. I myself, watched the metamorphosis of Peter Luke, owner of Split-the-Wind. He's an educated Indian: that is, he can read and write with readiness. He is also as fond of sporting a red necktie and paper collar as the next one, in fact he sets the fashion among the young bucks. Store clothes don't become him. Though in them he looks a sort of apology for a white man.

But one day he failed to show up at the homestead, and I sallied out in search of him. I found him on the creek bank very busy. He had bent willow wands to form a small arbor or tent, and covered this thickly with blankets or skins. In the center of the affair was a hole, in which reposed some red-hot stones. Into it he crawled with a bucket of water and a wisp of hay. These were for the sprinkling of the stones. I lifted an end of the blanket and tried to look in, but the steam and heat were too much for me. That Turkish bath would stew a white man, but Peter Luke stuck to it for over an hour. Then he crawled out, threw his cheek shirt and store clothes in a bundle and threw them in the creek.

At first I thought that in a fit of lunacy he was throwing his property away, but later found out this was the yearly laundering. By and by Peter Luke came to the stable for Split-the-Wind. It was a brand new P. L. to me. He had on-buckskin leggings, a hunting shirt gaily trimmed, and from his belt hung the long, curved knife for skinning game, and another knife in a beaded sheath. He carried his rifle carelessly, walked like the son of a chief, looked the part, and evidently had but one desire—to be quit of civilization.

"Here you, Peter Luke, what are you skinning off for?" I blustered. "Don't you know I'm depending on you to help on the farm?" But with a bland smile he flung his leg over the cayuse and cantered away into the wild.

The Indian is an inveterate gambler. He has methods new and old, but a favorite is the drawing of cuts. He will put up his best shirt, his shirt, his moccasins, anything he owns or can appropriate. If he wins, he's only elated, if he loses he does no hickin'. He can't be cured. There's an all-round good fellow up here, the sort of sky-pilot one wants to, who has dreams of weaning him from the error of his ways. He was telling me about it as we took the trail to town last week, and in the middle of the conversation whom should we come on, but Mosie, the hunter, and Chief Firebug sitting on a hillock enjoying a game of chance. The pilot wanted in to show 'em the error of his way. He said a lot of good things—found myself wishing the bridge-what folk of Toronto the Good could hear him—and asked feelingly if they weren't sorry and ashamed. The chief shook his head in high glee. He had been winning steadily. Mosie was not sure at first, but presently he remarked with an air of child-like confidence, "Me no like to lose, but never mind, better luck some more time, eh?"

The dry spell experienced by us during May has, however, reduced the crop prospects to that extent.

FAIR NOT POSTPONED*FIFTY HORSES ON GROUNDS.

No Truth in the Rumour that the Fair is not to go on. Excellent Prospects for a Good Show.

Secretary Tims is justly indignant at the rumour that has been circulated to the effect that the Edmonton fair had been postponed. To the Bulletin this morning he said, "Say that the fair is not postponed, and say it in capital letters." He informed the representative that he had wired the Calgary papers, and also wired all the post-masters down the line to contradict the story. It is just probable that the report originated through the postponing of the inaugural ceremonies which were to take place on the 1st. However, the fair is going on and gives promise of exceeding all its predecessors.

Already some fifty horses are on the grounds preparing for the contests of speed. Five of them are from across the line, fourteen arrived last night and a number more are expected, among them "Democracy" from Brandon, Man.

The Secretary asked the Bulletin to say that on no account will any entries be received after Wednesday night. The fair opens Thursday morning and the officials will be too busy attending to other duties to give any time to taking entries. This rule will be positively enforced. Word has been received that two expert judges will be on hand Thursday morning to judge the live stock. All that is needed now is good weather and the exhibition will pass into history as Edmonton's best.

LECTURE ON MISSION LIFE

Rev. M. Griffith's address, in the Presbyterian church last night, was not as well attended as it would have been had the evening been fine. Those who braved the storm heard a very interesting story of the experiences of missionaries in China during the Boxer risings. Mr. Griffith spoke in an easy conversational manner that carried with it the conviction that the audience were hearing the unvarnished facts concerning the miraculous escape of the speaker, Rev. Jonathan Guterin and other missionaries in China. He related many incidents to show the treachery of the Boxers towards the "Foreign Devils." Money was given the destitute missionaries to pursue their journey, then an escort was given them, who stole the money, and in other ways made their last condition worse than their first. Those who heard Rev. Mr. Griffith's story are convinced that the life of a missionary in China is not all sunshine.

FLAG OF REVOLUTION*NOW WAVES IN POLAND.

Warsaw and Other Polish Cities in Sympathy With Lodz—Troops Fire Again on the People.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—The flag of revolution has been raised in Poland. Warsaw and other places are in sympathy with Lodz and the situation approaches the condition of open rebellion. The sanguinary conflicts of Lodz are expected to be repeated in the other big cities of warring Poland. Russia on account of the censorship is not fully acquainted with the facts in Poland, but so soon as she is sure trouble is expected. Today rain is falling, things are comparatively quiet though the troops wantonly fired on one body of people in Lodz and killed 15.
